

November 19, 2002

FCC:

I not think that the FCC should implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Since Indiana's Telephone Privacy law my time has not been interrupted and frustrated by telemarketers—always unwanted phone calls in our household. I used to received probably 10 phone calls per week now I may receive one a week—if that. Anything to undermine the Indiana Telephone Privacy law would probably me an intrusion once again on my valuable time at home. (Whether I screen my calls or not!!)

Thank you for your time.
Melissa Soldner